ARLINGTON INDIAN

CLASS OF 1984

We the yearbook staff hereby dedicate the 1984 Arlington High School Indian to the people of Arlington without whose help and support we could not have made it this far.
Donna DeVellis

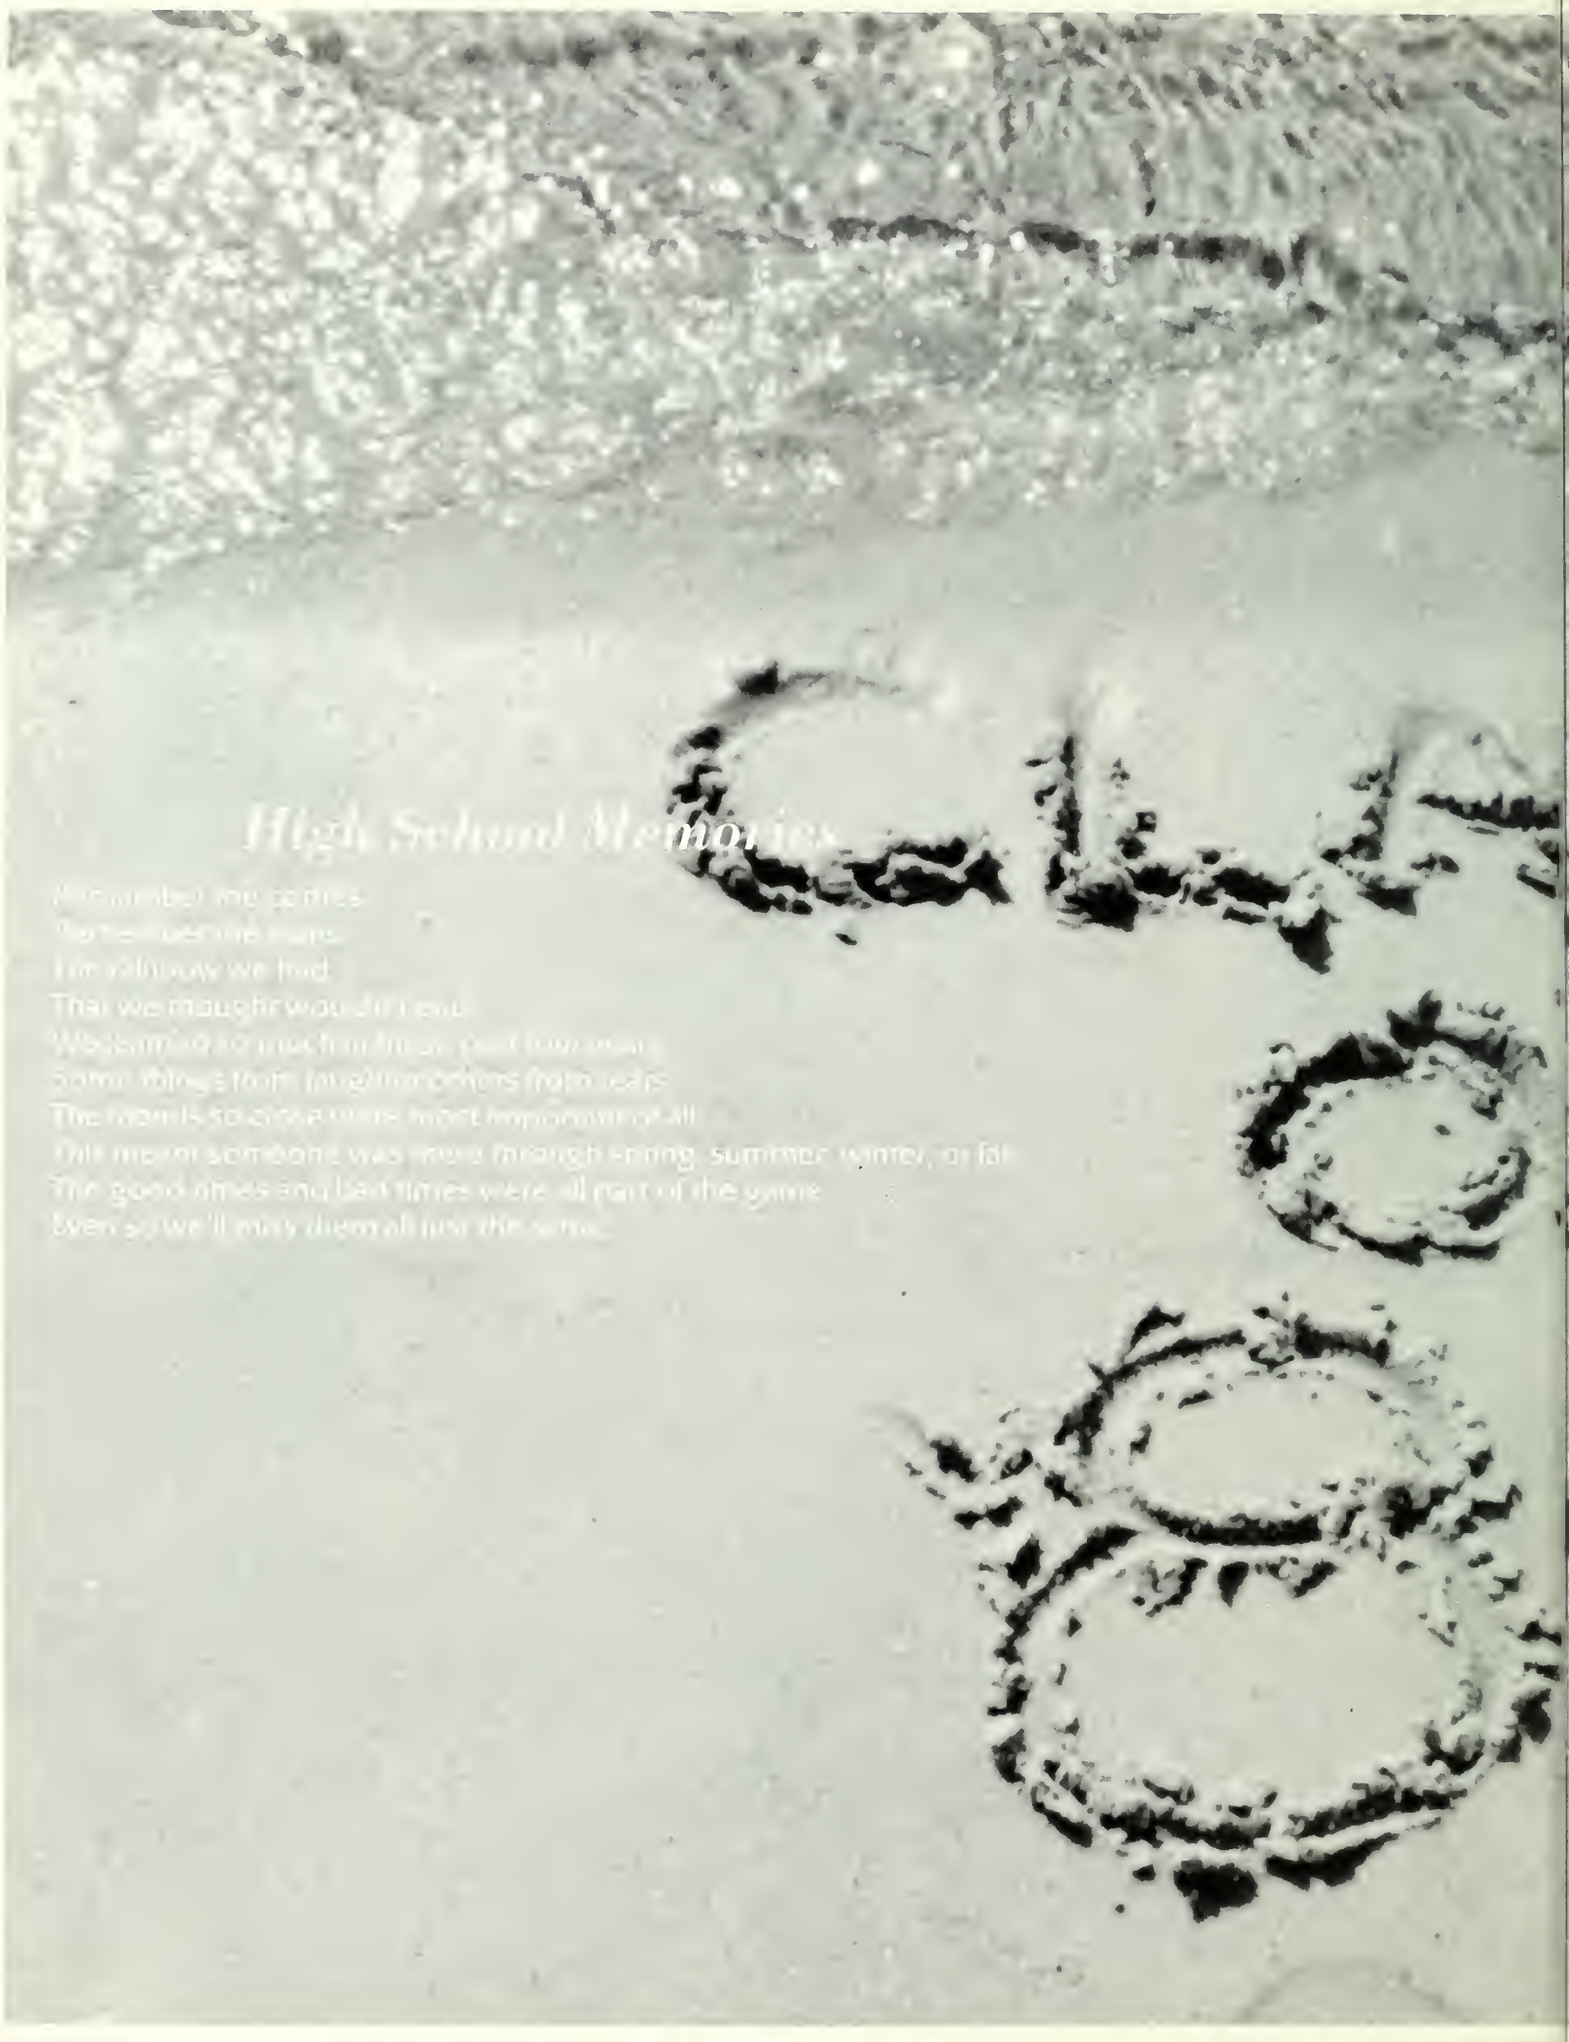

RED AND GRAY

We cheer today
The Red and Gray.
We know our boys will shine.
The backs will run around the end
And charge right through the line.
The team will march
On down the field
Until the game is won.
So lend your voice
And give a cheer
A cheer for Arlington.

High School Memories

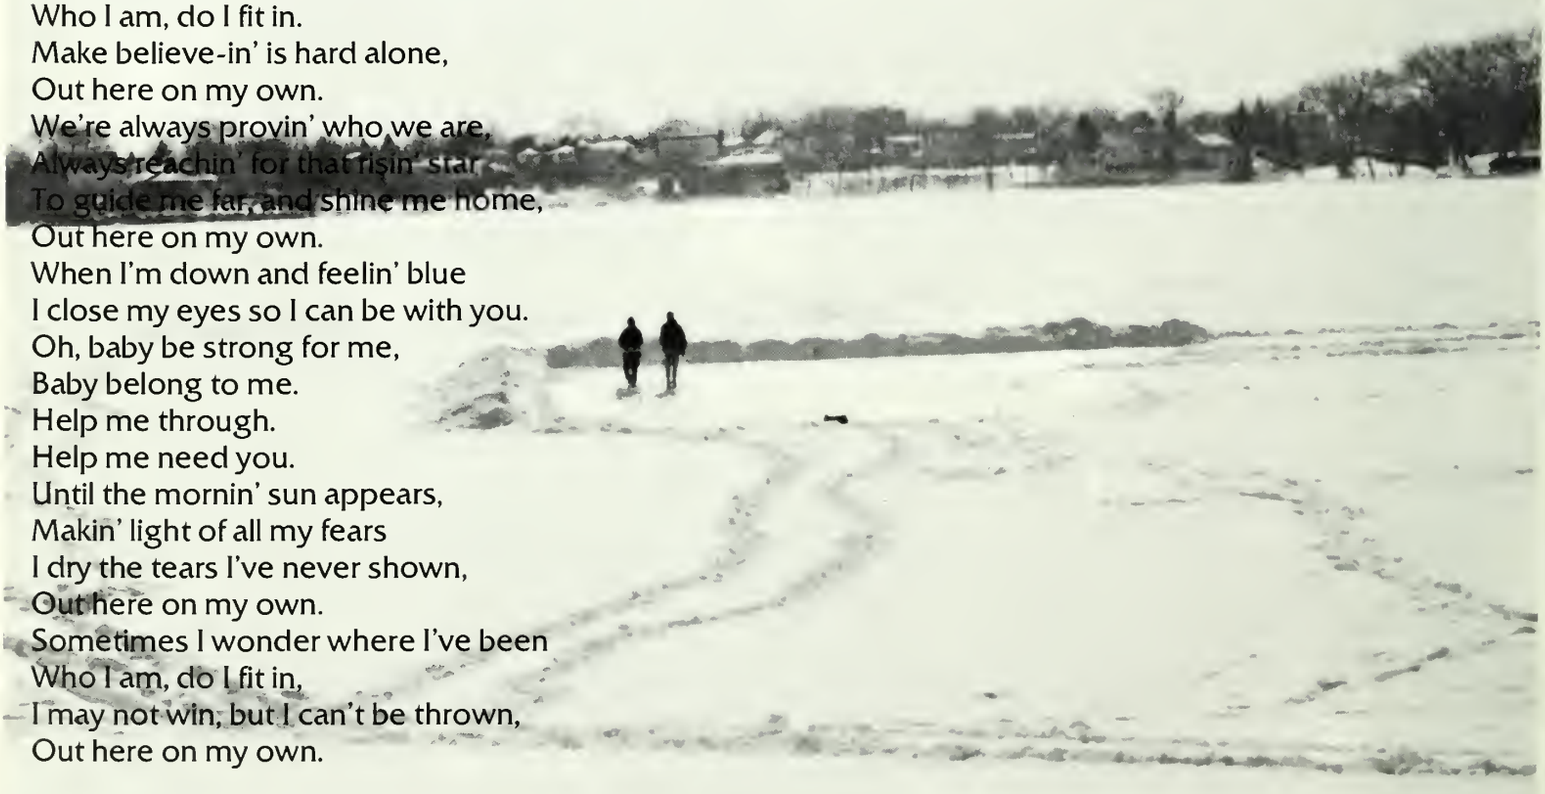

We'll remember the parties
The crazy dances
The following we had
That we maybe wouldn't have
We'll remember the times we had together
Some things that brought tears
The friends we made were important of all
Our friend someone was there through spring, summer, winter, or fall
The good times and bad times were all part of the game
Even so we'll enjoy them all just the same

The girlfriends and boyfriends we thought we loved so much
Seem different now that they're out of touch.
Even though we won't remember everything
That happened at Arlington High
Time after time we know we'll all try.
So after you've graduated and you're on your own ways
Think back to all of our high school days
And never give up on the dreams you once knew
Because you have what it takes to make them come true
And remember true friends will never ever part
As long as their friendship comes from the heart.
Good Luck Class of 1984
Johanna Nagle

Out Here On My Own

Sometimes I wonder where I've been,
Who I am, do I fit in.
Make believe-in' is hard alone,
Out here on my own.
We're always provin' who we are,
Always reachin' for that risin' star
To guide me far, and shine me home,
Out here on my own.
When I'm down and feelin' blue
I close my eyes so I can be with you.
Oh, baby be strong for me,
Baby belong to me.
Help me through.
Help me need you.
Until the mornin' sun appears,
Makin' light of all my fears
I dry the tears I've never shown,
Out here on my own.
Sometimes I wonder where I've been
Who I am, do I fit in,
I may not win, but I can't be thrown,
Out here on my own.

CHANGES

Still don't know what I was waiting for, and my time was running wild and I'm meeting dead-end streets and every time I thought I got it made it seemed the taste was not so sweet, so I turned myself to face me, but I've never caught a glimpse, how these others must see the faker. I'm much too fast to take that test.

CHANGES, turn and face the strain, changes, don't want to be a richer man

Time may change me, but I can trace time

I've watched the ripples change their size, but never leave the stream, worn in permanence and so the days flow through my eyes but still the days seem the same, and these children that you spit on as they try to change their worlds, are immune to your consultations, they're quite aware what they're going through.

CHANGES, turn and face the strain, changes, don't tell them to put off an all-event

CHANGES, turn and face the strain, changes, a swear's a shame you've left us up to an accident

Time may change me, but you can trace time

Strange fascinations are filling me, of changes are taking the base I'm going through.

CHANGES, turn and face the strain, changes, ooh look out you rock and rollers

CHANGES, turn and face the strain, changes, pretty soon now you're gonna get older

Time may change me, but I can trace time.

I said that time may change me, but I can trace time.

I had a pretty good time in AHS I am ready to graduate. Mr. Paul taught me good in Algebra. I would like to thank Mr. Paul I have been on the Varsity soccer team. I was impressed by some of the great players on our team. We have a good soccer team. Eliot and Peter are fine players who will be seniors next year. I want to say good luck to them for the next season.

The Way We Were

Memories, like the corners of my mind
Misty watercolor memories
Of the way we were
Scattered pictures of the smiles we left behind
Smiles we gave to one another
For the way we were
Can it be that it was all so simple then
Or has time rewritten every line
If we had the chance to do it all again
Tell me, would we, could we Memories may be beautiful and yet
What's too simple to remember
We simply choose to forget.
So it's the laughter we will remember
Whenever we remember the way we were
The way we were.

You've Got a Friend

When you're down and troubled
And you need some love and care
And nothin', nothin' is going right
Close your eyes and think of me
And soon I will be there
To brighten up even your darkest night.

You just call out my name, and you know wherever I am
I'll come running to see you again
Winter, spring, summer, or fall,
All you have to do is call
And I'll be there, yes, I will, you've got a friend.

If the sky above you grows dark and full of clouds
And that old north wind should begin to blow
Keep your head together and call my name out loud
Soon you'll hear me knockin' upon your door.

Now ain't it good to know that you've got a friend
When people can be so cold
They'll hurt you, yes, and desert you
They'll take your soul if you let them
Oh, but, don't you let them.

Itty Bitty Freshman

Freshman year was a year of transition, as it is for any class, but for the good old Class of '84, it was especially difficult. Due to construction, half of us were at the Ottoson and the rest of us were at the High School. There was also a small percentage that had to go from one school to the other.

It didn't really matter where you went; both places seemed a little crazy. Those of us at the High School had to deal with constant noise, due to construction. That wasn't the only drawback to construction, though. How many remember walking into a hard-hat area by mistake and getting threatened with suspension? There did not seem to be any bathrooms; they keep being moved. G-Gym was perhaps the place that best symbolized the changes going on in the high school. Partitions were set up in the gym and classes took place there, despite flooding and lights specially designed to give us headaches. Firedrills seemed to be a weekly, if not daily, occurrence, as were whispered rumors of walkouts.

The Ottoson was not that much better. We felt totally separated from both the High School and the junior high school; our identity seemed lost. We were not really sure who was in charge after the middle of the year (was it Mr. Romeo? Maz?). Time at the Ottoson seemed a little different than anywhere else. We had to come to school at 7:15 and we ate lunch at 10:45. The room that best represented the feelings of frustration that we had was the Spanish room where a class went crazy and ripped a radiator off the wall.

That's not to say we had no good feelings about high school during freshman year. We'd finally reached high school, and adulthood was just around the corner. We had new rights and responsibilities, but we could still be children. As we looked wide-eyed toward our sophomore year, even those of us who had been at the Ottoson realized we were leaving junior high, and our childhood, behind us.

Silly Silly Sophomores

Sophomore year had rolled around, but construction had not rolled away. We were reminded daily that work was still being done; the Freshman Building's roofs sounded and smelled like battlefields when they were being tarred. Leaks in the ceiling created puddles that could not be stopped despite attempts by teachers to use wastebaskets to catch the drips.

Sophomore year resulted in confusion for those students "stationed" at the Ottoson during freshmen year. Apparently, someone forgot that they had not been given the orientation usually given the freshmen on their first day of school. Thus, much of the sophomore class walked around the school trying to figure out where in the world "Freshmen Building" was.

Two new additions popped up in the high school during our sophomore year. The first was the Media Center's "Silent Study Area By Request." To this day, I have not met anyone who has gone to the library to actually study silently. The other new additions were the metal coverings which seemed to suddenly grow on the many of the walls. The reason: kids had been kicking them in.

Despite all the confusion because of no orientation and broken in walls, our sophomore year was really one of calming down, both for us and for the school. Construction was almost (not quite) over, and all of us were at the high school. Our identity could be finally found, for now we were on class, the Class of '84.

Our sophomore year was also the year of "the game"; that is, the AHS-AC hockey game. On a cold February night, much of the high school poured into buses and travelled to Boston Garden to watch the team be defeated, unfortunately. That was not the only sports news of our sophomore year, though. A near-riot started at the annual Thanksgiving AHS-Somerville football game when a Somerville fan ran in front of our stands proudly displaying a sign reading "Stuff Arlington."

Our sophomore year was probably best reflected by a certain incident that occurred in the cafeteria — live mice were thrown from table to table, a fairly common high school prank. The lunchroom entered a state of chaos as kids tried to stomp on the animals. Like the high school, the lunch room was still a little hectic, but more due to normal high school problems than to complex difficulties.

As we looked toward our junior, and supposedly most difficult, year, we hoped that our own lives as upperclassmen would not become too difficult.

Jolly Jolly Juniors

Junior year, for better or worse, came our way. We watched as our friends, just a year older than us, prepared to enter the world beyond high school, and we realized that it would be our turn next.

We could still have fun while we waited, though. Junior year meant proms and semis and the fundraisers that inevitably lead to them. We were told by our junior class officers that we were to sell calendars and posters — not easy tasks. The posters were a little easier to sell than the calendars, but many students, after an ambitious start, became tired of rejection and stopped selling once they had sold enough to get a discount on their prom ticket. The semi and prom made all the selling worth it, however. As the girls picked out dresses, the boys picked out their suits and tuxes, everyone realizing that only those about to be adults did this kind of thing. Both nights were magic (even if the needle did skip at the semi), and everyone left the dances with a special feeling that they had never felt before.

We were not only called down to the auditorium to be briefed on fundraisers, though. One of the highlights of the year came when Lowe Auditorium was transformed, briefly, into a concert hall for the dynamic Navy Band to perform such hits as "Superfreak" and "Abracadabra."

Guidance offered us the perfect way out of classes — mini-colleges. Many students seemed to be going to the media center to check out "that one college" that they "just couldn't miss" (or so they told their teachers). Other things everyone seemed to be doing were taking U.S. history, writing term papers, getting drivers' licenses, and taking college boards.

Junior year was the year that "the dust truly settled" for the High School, as well as for us.

As the end of our year approached, we watched as the kids who were only a year older than us leave school early; some of us wondered whether we were seniors than or if we had to wait until their graduation or even until September. We were soon to be seniors, with all the joys and obligations which all seniors have.

Mighty Mighty Seniors

Senior year! It finally came! With it came fear and joy of the impending graduation. Cap and gown cards, making sure that you had enough credits to graduate, praying that it would not rain on June 3 — they were all a part of graduating.

Senior year also meant facing up to the fact that we were not children anymore. We had one more year to act like kids, but then it would be over, and our future plans, whether they included college, work, and/or the military had to be made. This led to constant meetings between students and guidance counselors (the new favorite "hang-out" seemed to be Guidance — almost everyone went there more this year than any other year). Essays had to be written, interviews had to be made, deadlines had to be met, and, for many, April 15 seemed an eternity away. It was all worth it, though, when you finally landed that job or got into that college.

The school committee decided to change our school colors from maroon and gray to cardinal red and gray. The student body protested, and a vote was taken. The students of the high school voted overwhelmingly for maroon and gray. Even as I write this, the controversy is still going on. I assume that by the time you read this, everything will have been resolved; I certainly hope so.

During our senior year, more and more students got their drivers' licenses. This caused a new issue to enter our lives — drunk driving. So, in November, we were treated to "SADD Day," sponsored by the Arlington High School chapter of SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). At first, many of us laughed at the idea of listening to a speaker preach to us about driving drunk. When Mr. Anastas started speaking, however, we were quickly engrossed in his dynamic speech; we learned more than we thought we would on that day.

Our senior year also saw the dawn of 1984, not 1984 (although many English students did have to read that book). The world of George Orwell's Big Brother, depicted in his book, was not the reality we saw around us. Hopefully, it won't be for a long time.

Our year in twelfth grade was perhaps best symbolized by the senior convention held in October. We had a great time listening to the soul-stirring speech of Mahatma Ghandi Harding and watching a whole bunch of balloons and toilet paper fly around the auditorium (to the great dismay of the administration). Yet we were reminded that we were adults, and many of us would be voting in the next presidential election. We were having our last big fling of childhood before emerging from the high school as adults.

Realities

Remember what you are
Not just an "animal",
A thing of flesh, blood and bone.
Rather, a special being
Whose reality is of the spirit,
The "Rationalis", and hopefully,
The "Sapiens".

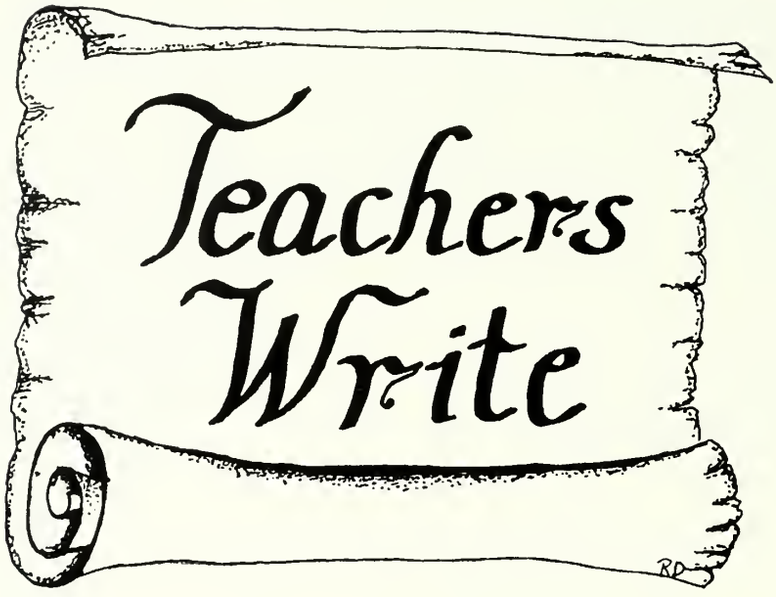

Dream your dreams
But build them
Not with the gossamer
Cloth of myth and fancy
But, upon solid
Substance, fashioned of Reality.

Be free with your smile
And it will Reflect back to you.
Be gentle
And kind to others
And, yes, you will learn
The secret of love.

So, in parting
My prayerful wish
For each of you
Is a life filled with Meaningful purpose
And intertwined with
Golden strands of love.

John Cotter

Dear Class of 1984:

As we seek to understand each other, we find that we can never entirely understand someone else, and each of us remains part stranger, even to those who love us. As you live and grow, remember, it is the weak who are cruel; gentleness is to be expected only from the strong. Those who do not know fear are not really brave, for courage is the capacity to confront what can be imagined. You can understand people better if you look at them — no matter how old or impressive they are — as if they are children. For most of us never mature, we simply grow taller. Happiness comes only when we push our brains and hearts to the farthest reaches of which we are capable. The REAL purpose of life is to MATTER — to count — to stand for something, to make it some difference that we lived at all.

My love to you always,

Nanci Ortwein

CLASS OF 1984

Congratulations to the Students of the Class of 1984!

Twenty years ago, I lead the Class of 1964 out to our commencement exercises at Pierce Field, and I remember the principal's words on that special day: "You'll never forget the best four years of your life." As I reflect back, I find those words have remained true.

The Class of 1984 is special as you remind me so much of my own class in your school spirit, initiative, self-control and the respect you display for the leaders of your school.

As members of the student body, you have displayed good citizenship in the school as well as in the community, and you exemplify the Student Handbook's expectations for good conduct.

Both the administration and the staff of Arlington High School feel that their primary task is to foster educational and social growth, as well as look after the welfare of the students. Your class has enabled us to do just that.

While we realize that the very nature of adolescents is to have their need for self-expression and development which includes their spirit of independence and their tendency to challenge adult values and establishment, we have been pleased with your overall comportment.

In your future endeavors, remember the words of John Wooden of UCLA that "success is peace of mind which is a direct result of self-satisfaction in knowing you did your best to become the best that you are capable of becoming."

While you will never forget AHS, the best years of your lives are yet ahead. Finally, remember, "It is what you learn after you know it all that counts."

Best of Luck.

Richard DeCaprio

Dear Class of '84,

Your four years seemed to fly by. Now you are really graduating and starting out on your own. Thinking about what lies ahead for you, it is exciting to realize that all the world is there! You have everything to choose from — so pick wisely. If I can offer you any advice, it would be to set your goals high and don't be afraid to show your feelings of love.

You are our future and I look forward to "your" world. May it be a world filled with peace and love.

Nobody has ever been able to say what sport is, quite.
But life would hardly be the same without it.
Perhaps that's because sport means a number of opposite things.
It means fact and it means fancy.
It is as tangible as a baseball bat and as intangible as a frosty morning; exciting as a photo-finish, serene as ebb tide.
It is competition; composure; memory; anticipation.
Sport is not all things to all people.
But today it is something in more different ways to more people than it has ever been before.
It is play for many and work for a few.
It is what no one has to do and almost everyone wants to do.
It represents on the one hand, challenges willingly accepted — and on the other, gambits willingly declined.
Its colors are as bright as a cardinal's feathers; as soft as midnight on a mountain trail.
It is as loud as Dodger Stadium at the climax of a World Series — and as quiet as snow.
It is exercise and rest. It is man exuberant and man content.
In America today sport is not just a dream that lies over the rainbow, but an awakening that brings a family together — on a boat or beach, skiing weekend or camping trip.
Sport is not art or religion, morals or ideals.
But with all of these it shares values which are at least humanly high and always highly human.
Sport is a wonderful world.

PORTFOLIO

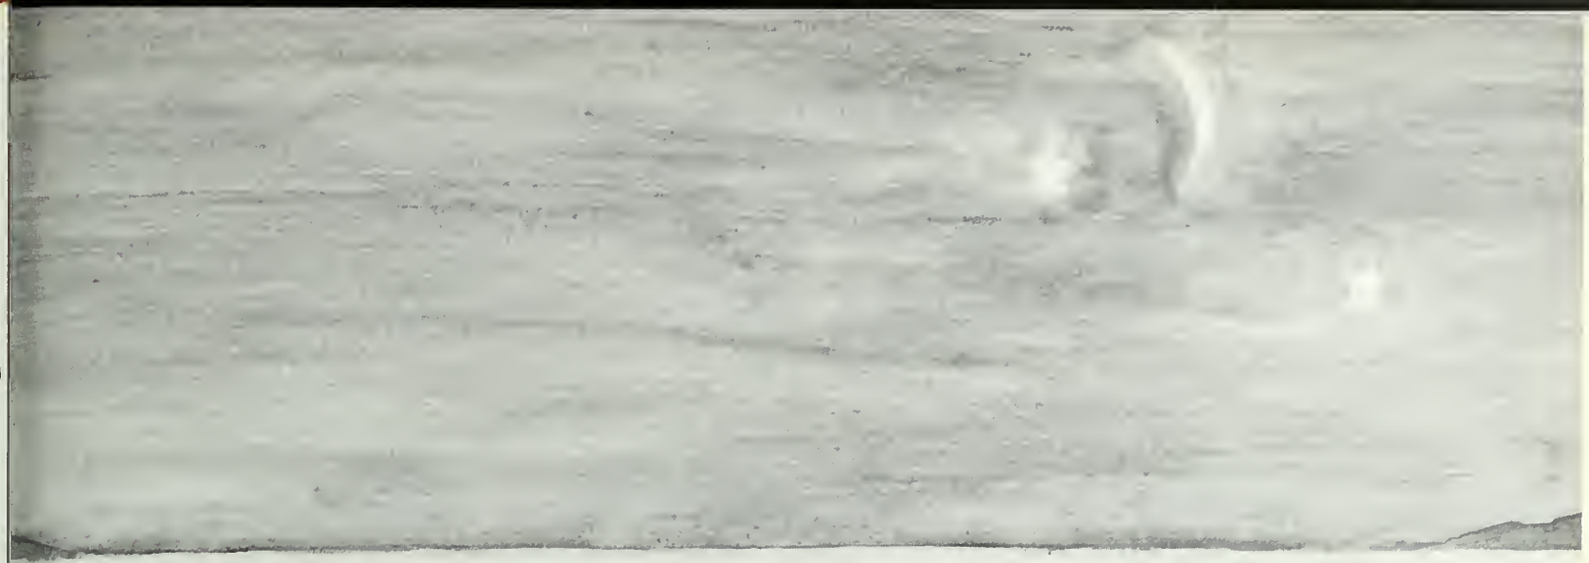

1984

I came across my yearbook today and began to thumb through when I came to a page
with a picture of you.
It seems like forever
since I've spoken to you.
Do you still recall everything,
the same way I do?
I remember the gang
and Saturday nights.
We thought we were wild
just stars in the lights.
I remember the laughter
how easy it came.
We were full of youth
that no one could tame.
I remember the tears
that brought us so close till the hurt went away
then we dared for the most.
I remember the good times
and all that we shared
at the time we were free
and hadn't a care.
As I closed my book
a tear dropped close.
We had taken those years
and made them the most.
I love life now
and I loved it then too
and I hope you cherish the memories
the same way that I do.

Donna DeLeo

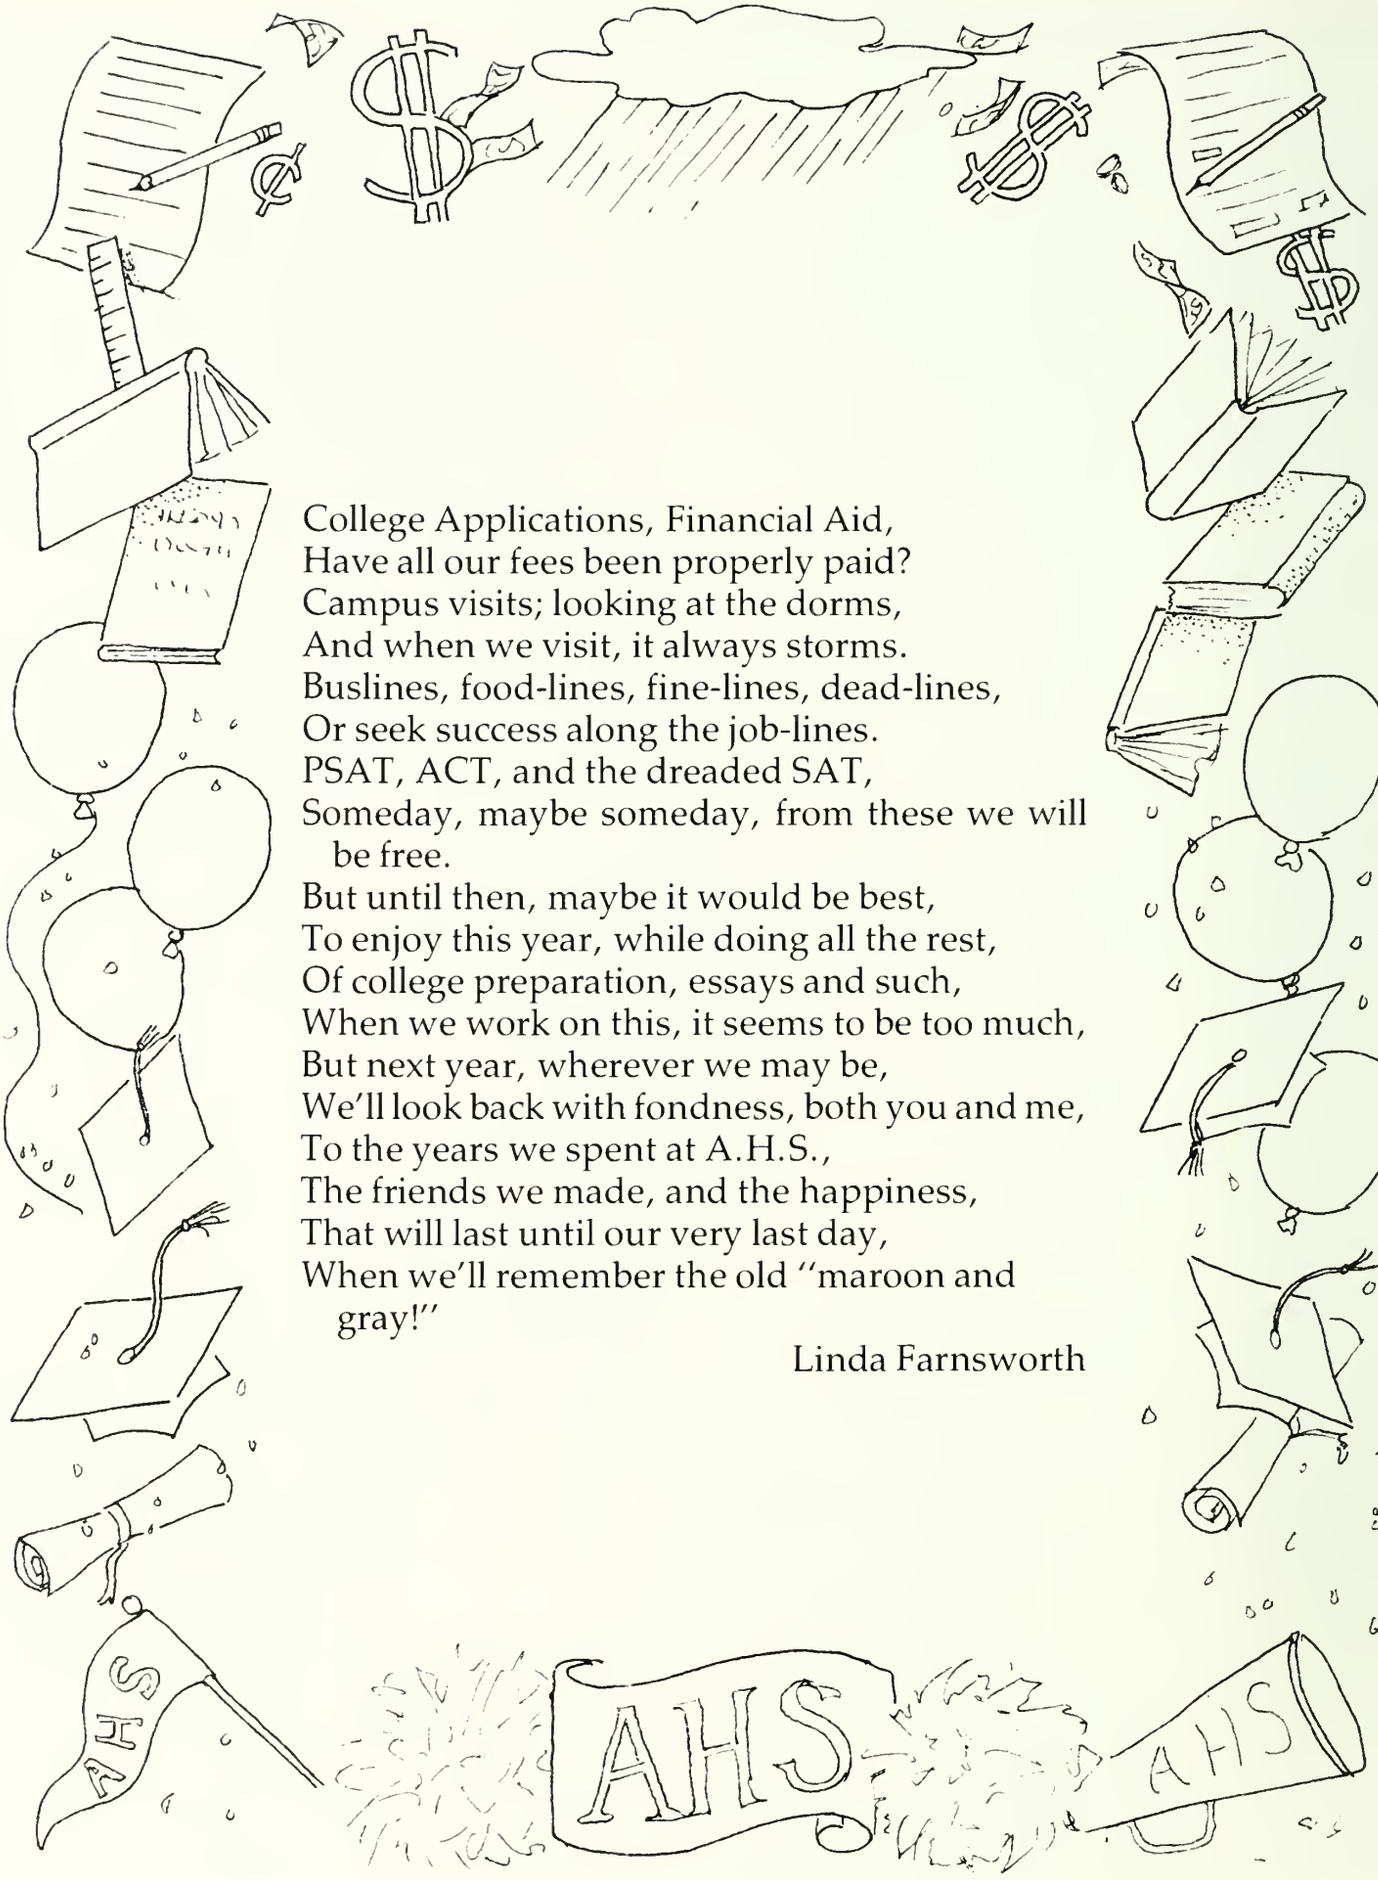

Footprints

Walking on the beach
Hand in hand
With the cool water
Touching our toes
With every wave of the perpetual current.
Our footprints led to the rocks
On which we sat
Gazing at the sky,
The stars, the moon,
And searching for the horizon
Through the mist
Like our futures
Extending eternally it seems.
A dreamy scene
For a night that was
Like a dream come true.
We sketched our initials in the sand
Unique and perfect
To illustrate our friendship.
The sand was soft and
The waves crept slowly toward them
Soon our masterpiece would disappear
As the moments that we now share.
But even after the initials
Are washed away
They can never be erased
From our minds and hearts
As a cherished memory
Of the happiness
We once shared.
Even our footprints will vanish
Side by side
But never forgotten.

by Karen Tufankjian

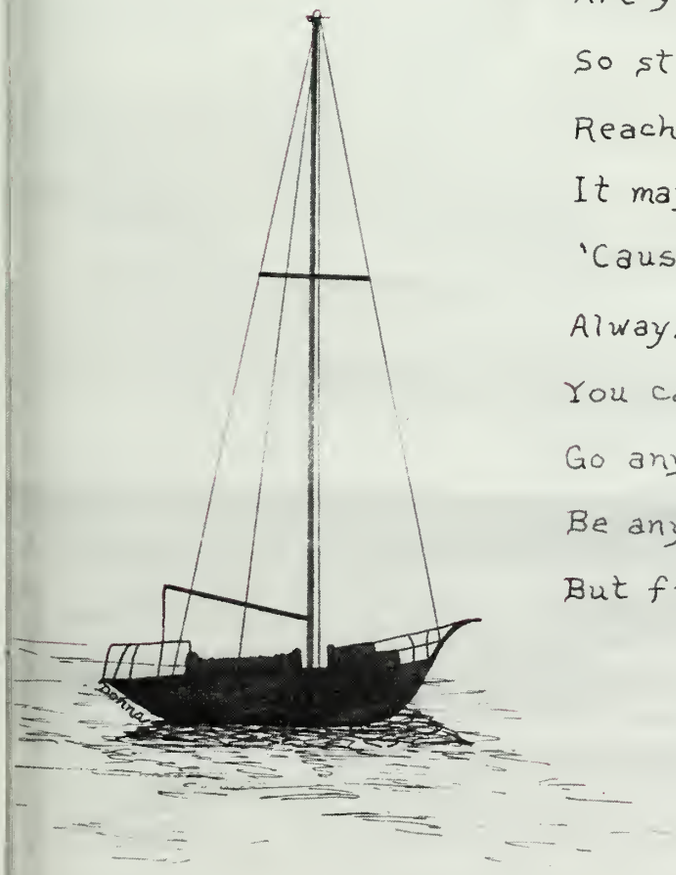

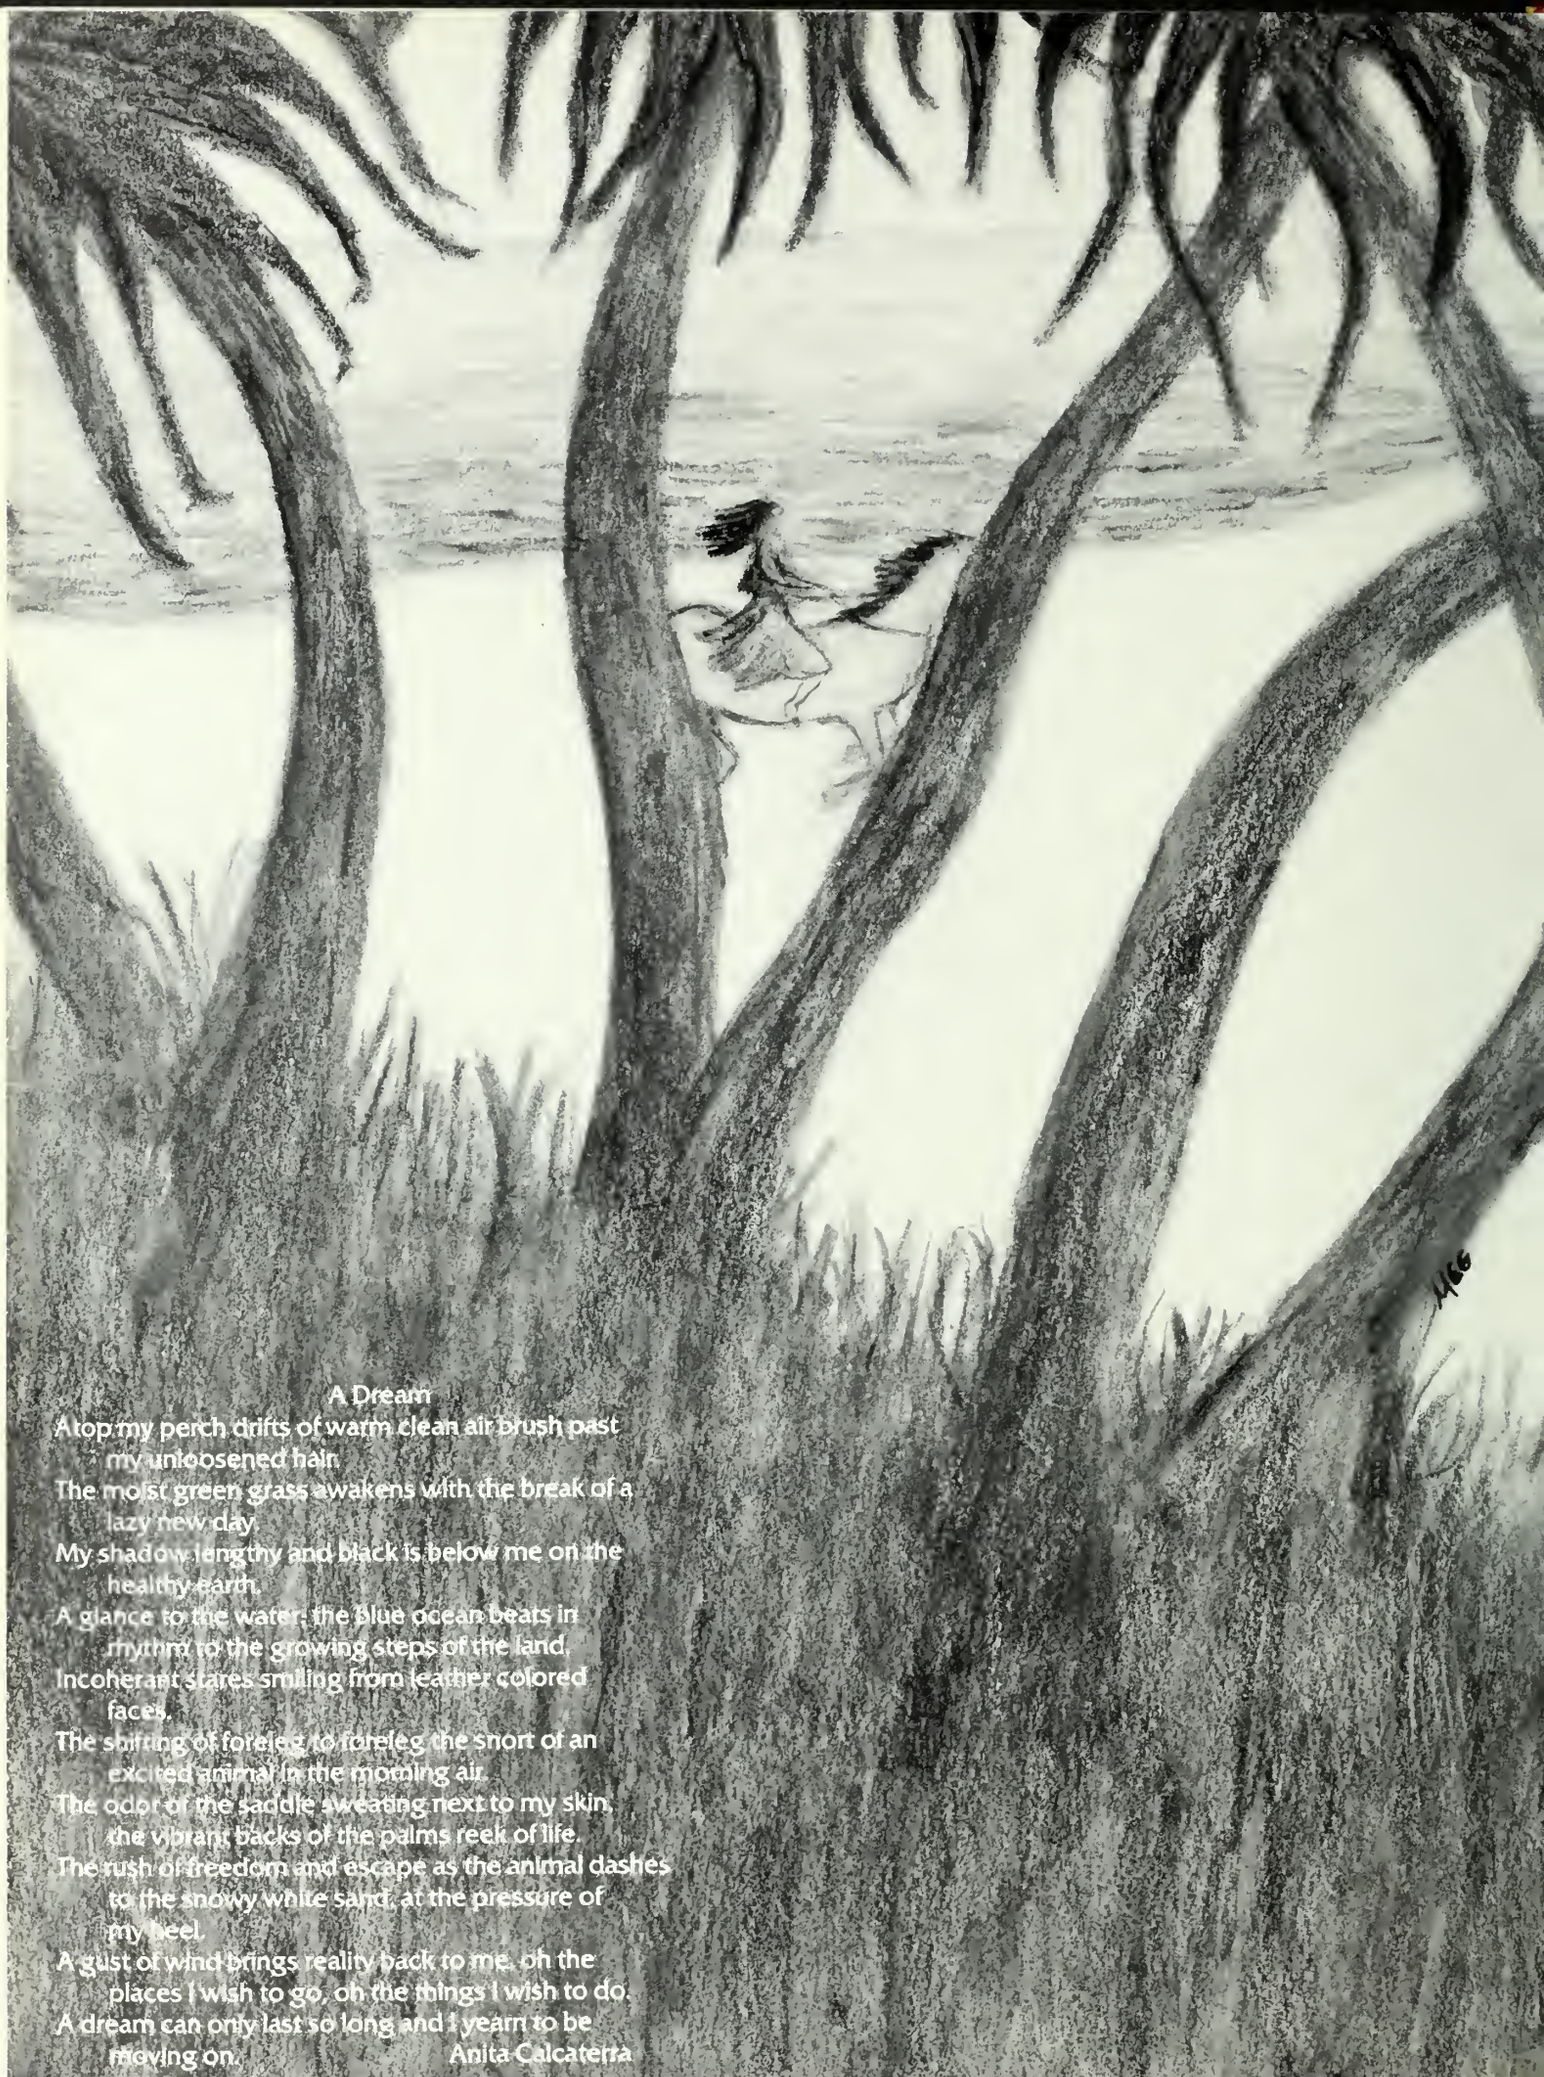

College Applications, Financial Aid,
Have all our fees been properly paid?
Campus visits; looking at the dorms,
And when we visit, it always storms.
Buslines, food-lines, fine-lines, dead-lines,
Or seek success along the job-lines.
PSAT, ACT, and the dreaded SAT,
Someday, maybe someday, from these we will be free.
But until then, maybe it would be best,
To enjoy this year, while doing all the rest,
Of college preparation, essays and such,
When we work on this, it seems to be too much,
But next year, wherever we may be,
We'll look back with fondness, both you and me,
To the years we spent at A.H.S.,
The friends we made, and the happiness,
That will last until our very last day,
When we'll remember the old "maroon and gray!"

Linda Farnsworth

A star is waiting,
Catch its tail and you can go anywhere.
Ride that star
To the edges of your imagination.
The only boundaries
Are your dreams.
So stretch for that star,
Reach for it.
It may be the hardest thing to do
'Cause being everything you can isn't easy.
Always remember
You can do anything,
Go anywhere,
Be anyone,
But first you gotta try.

Michael Harrington

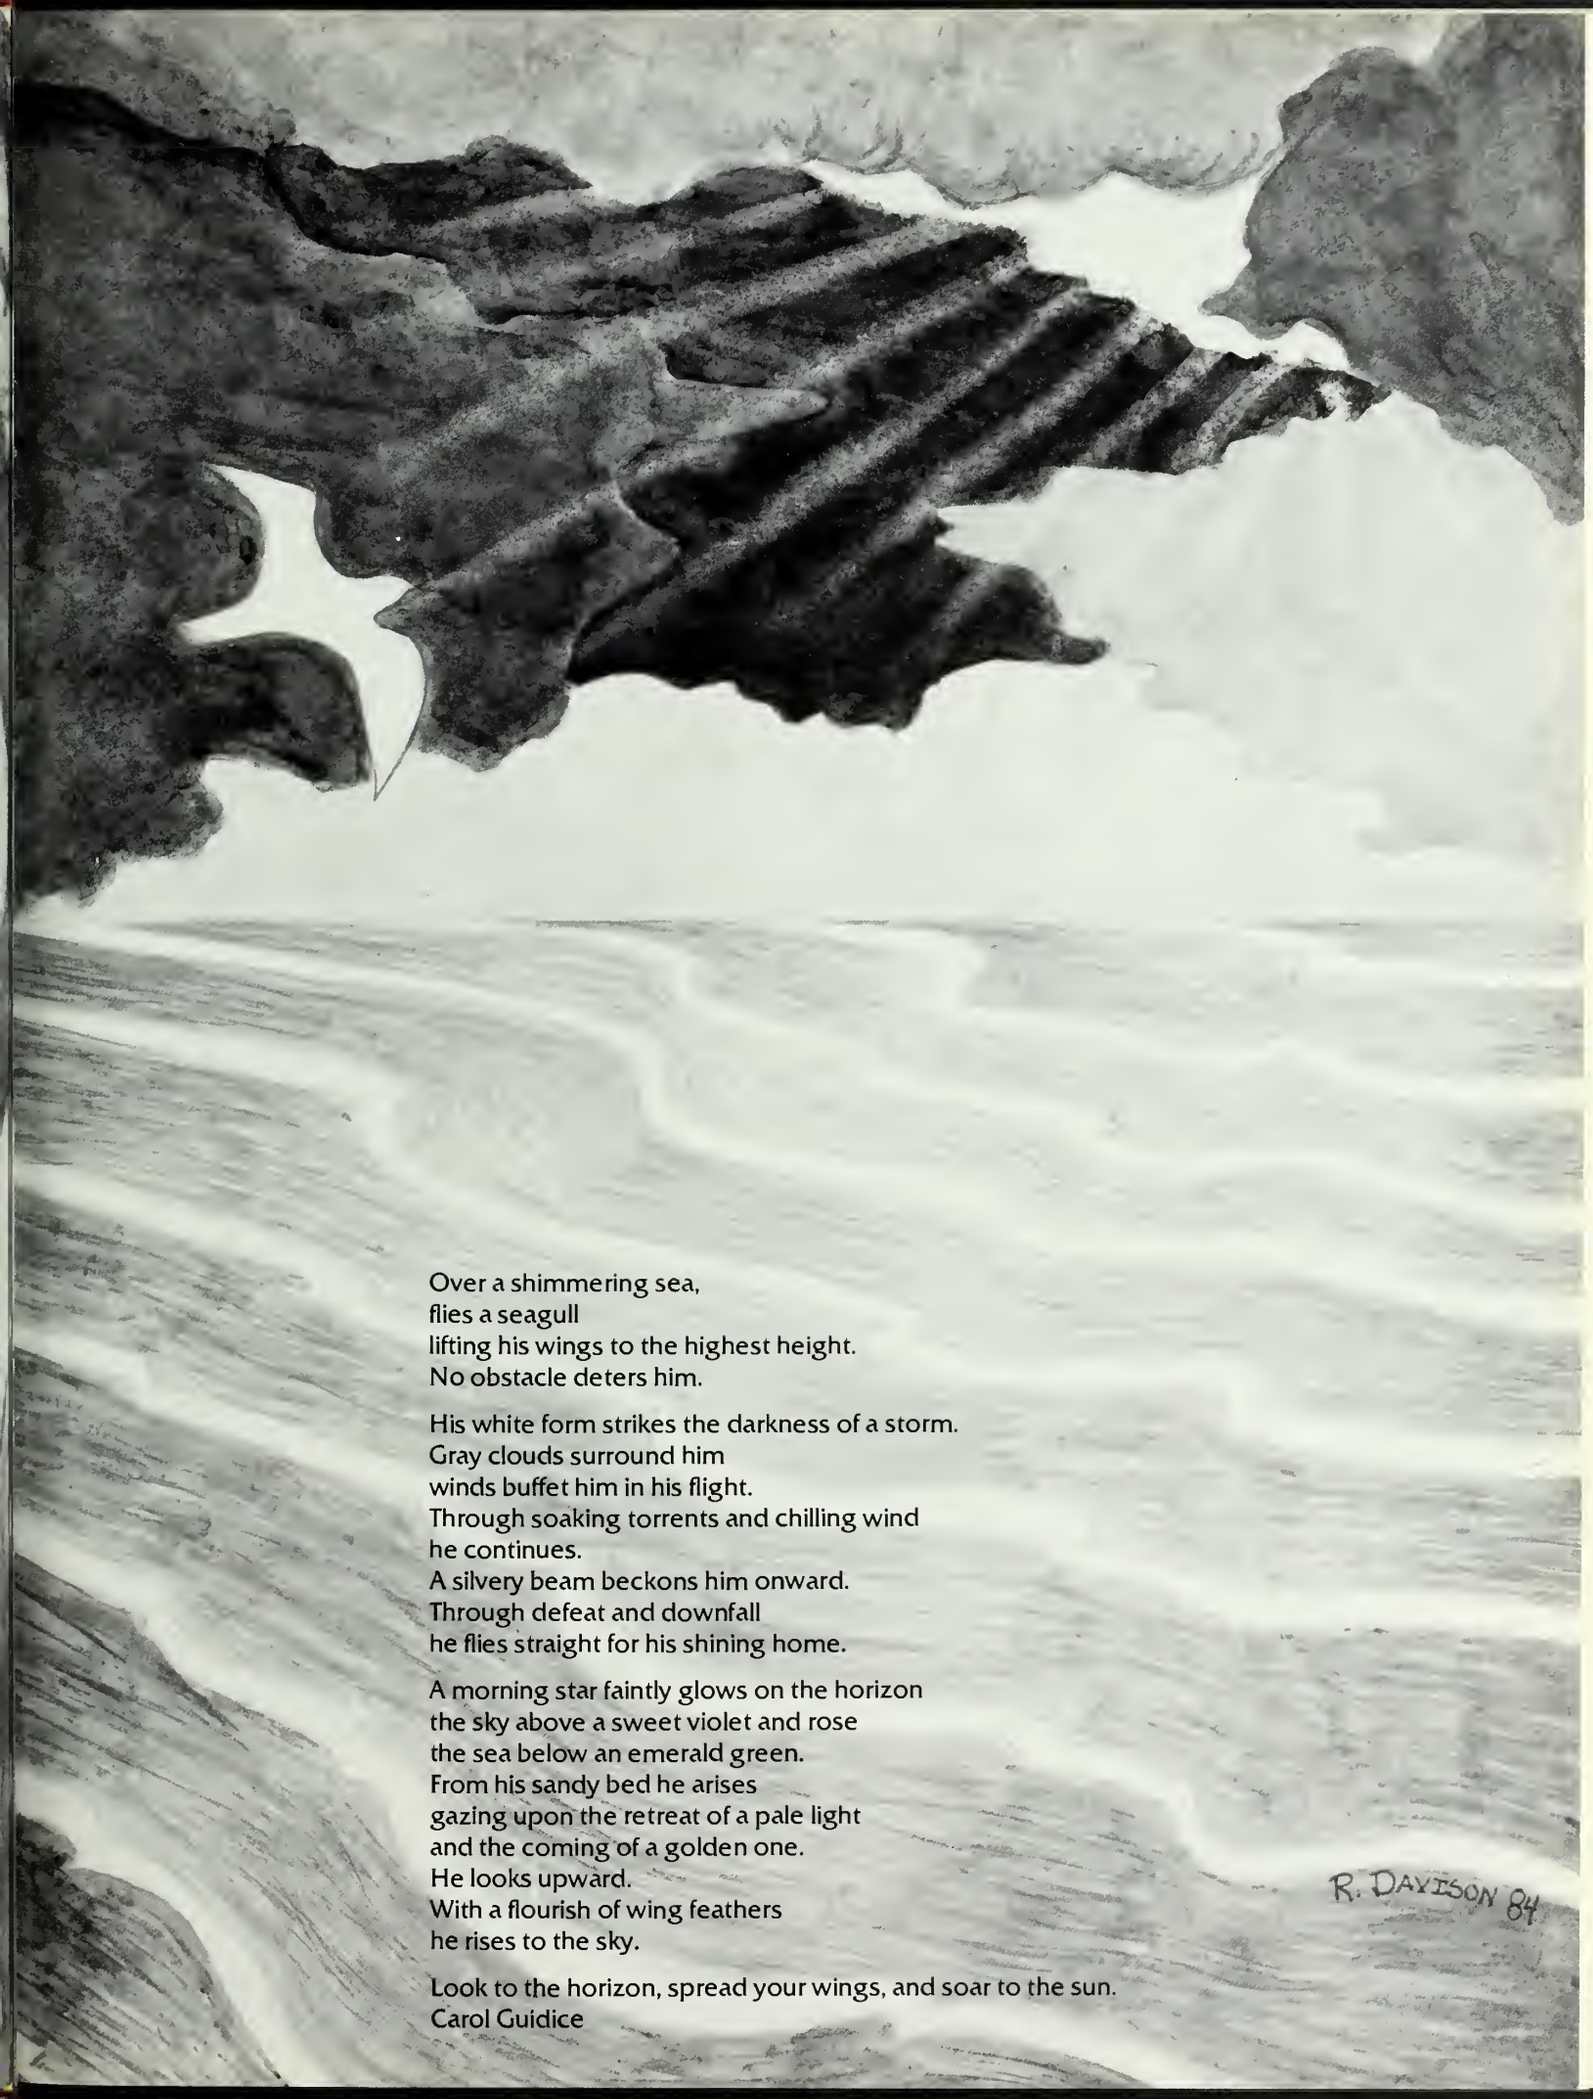

A Dream

Atop my perch drifts of warm clean air brush past my unloosened hair.
The moist green grass awakens with the break of a lazy new day.
My shadow lengthy and black is below me on the healthy earth.
A glance to the water: the blue ocean beats in rhythm to the growing steps of the land.
Incoherant stares smiling from leather colored faces.
The shifting of foreleg to foreleg the snort of an excited animal in the morning air.
The odor of the saddle sweating next to my skin,
the vibrant backs of the palms reek of life.
The rush of freedom and escape as the animal dashes to the snowy white sand, at the pressure of my heel.
A gust of wind brings reality back to me, oh the places I wish to go, oh the things I wish to do.
A dream can only last so long and I yearn to be moving on.

Anita Calcaterra

Over a shimmering sea,
flies a seagull
lifting his wings to the highest height.
No obstacle deters him.

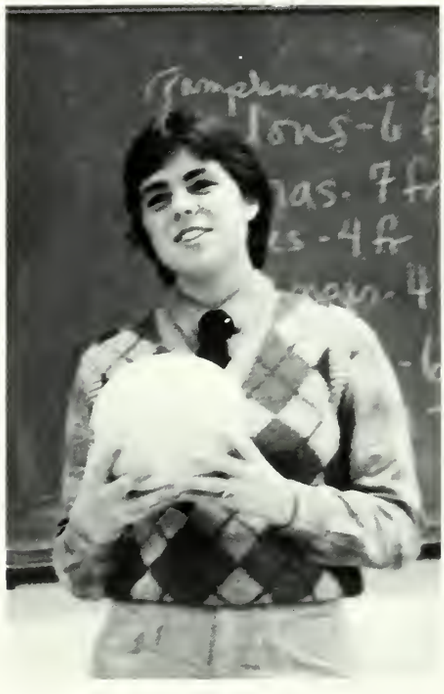

His white form strikes the darkness of a storm.
Gray clouds surround him
winds buffet him in his flight.
Through soaking torrents and chilling wind
he continues.
A silvery beam beckons him onward.
Through defeat and downfall
he flies straight for his shining home.

A morning star faintly glows on the horizon
the sky above a sweet violet and rose the sea below an emerald green.
From his sandy bed he arises gazing upon the retreat of a pale light and the coming of a golden one.
He looks upward.
With a flourish of wing feathers
he rises to the sky.

Look to the horizon, spread your wings, and soar to the sun.

5.4.3.2..

Dear Class of 1984,

Since we arrived at this school four years ago we have been through many good times together. As our senior year comes to a close, we remember those times and the fun we had together. I hope this yearbook will bring back the many memories of our high school days.

This yearbook was an especially difficult task because we had no teacher advisor. As a result of this most of the responsibilities fell upon Carol. Without her we probably wouldn't have had a yearbook. I would like to thank everyone who volunteered their time to this yearbook and especially to the staff for helping us to meet the many deadlines. We hope that this yearbook will help you to remember the Class of 1984.

Good Luck "84"
Robert Davison
Assistant Editor

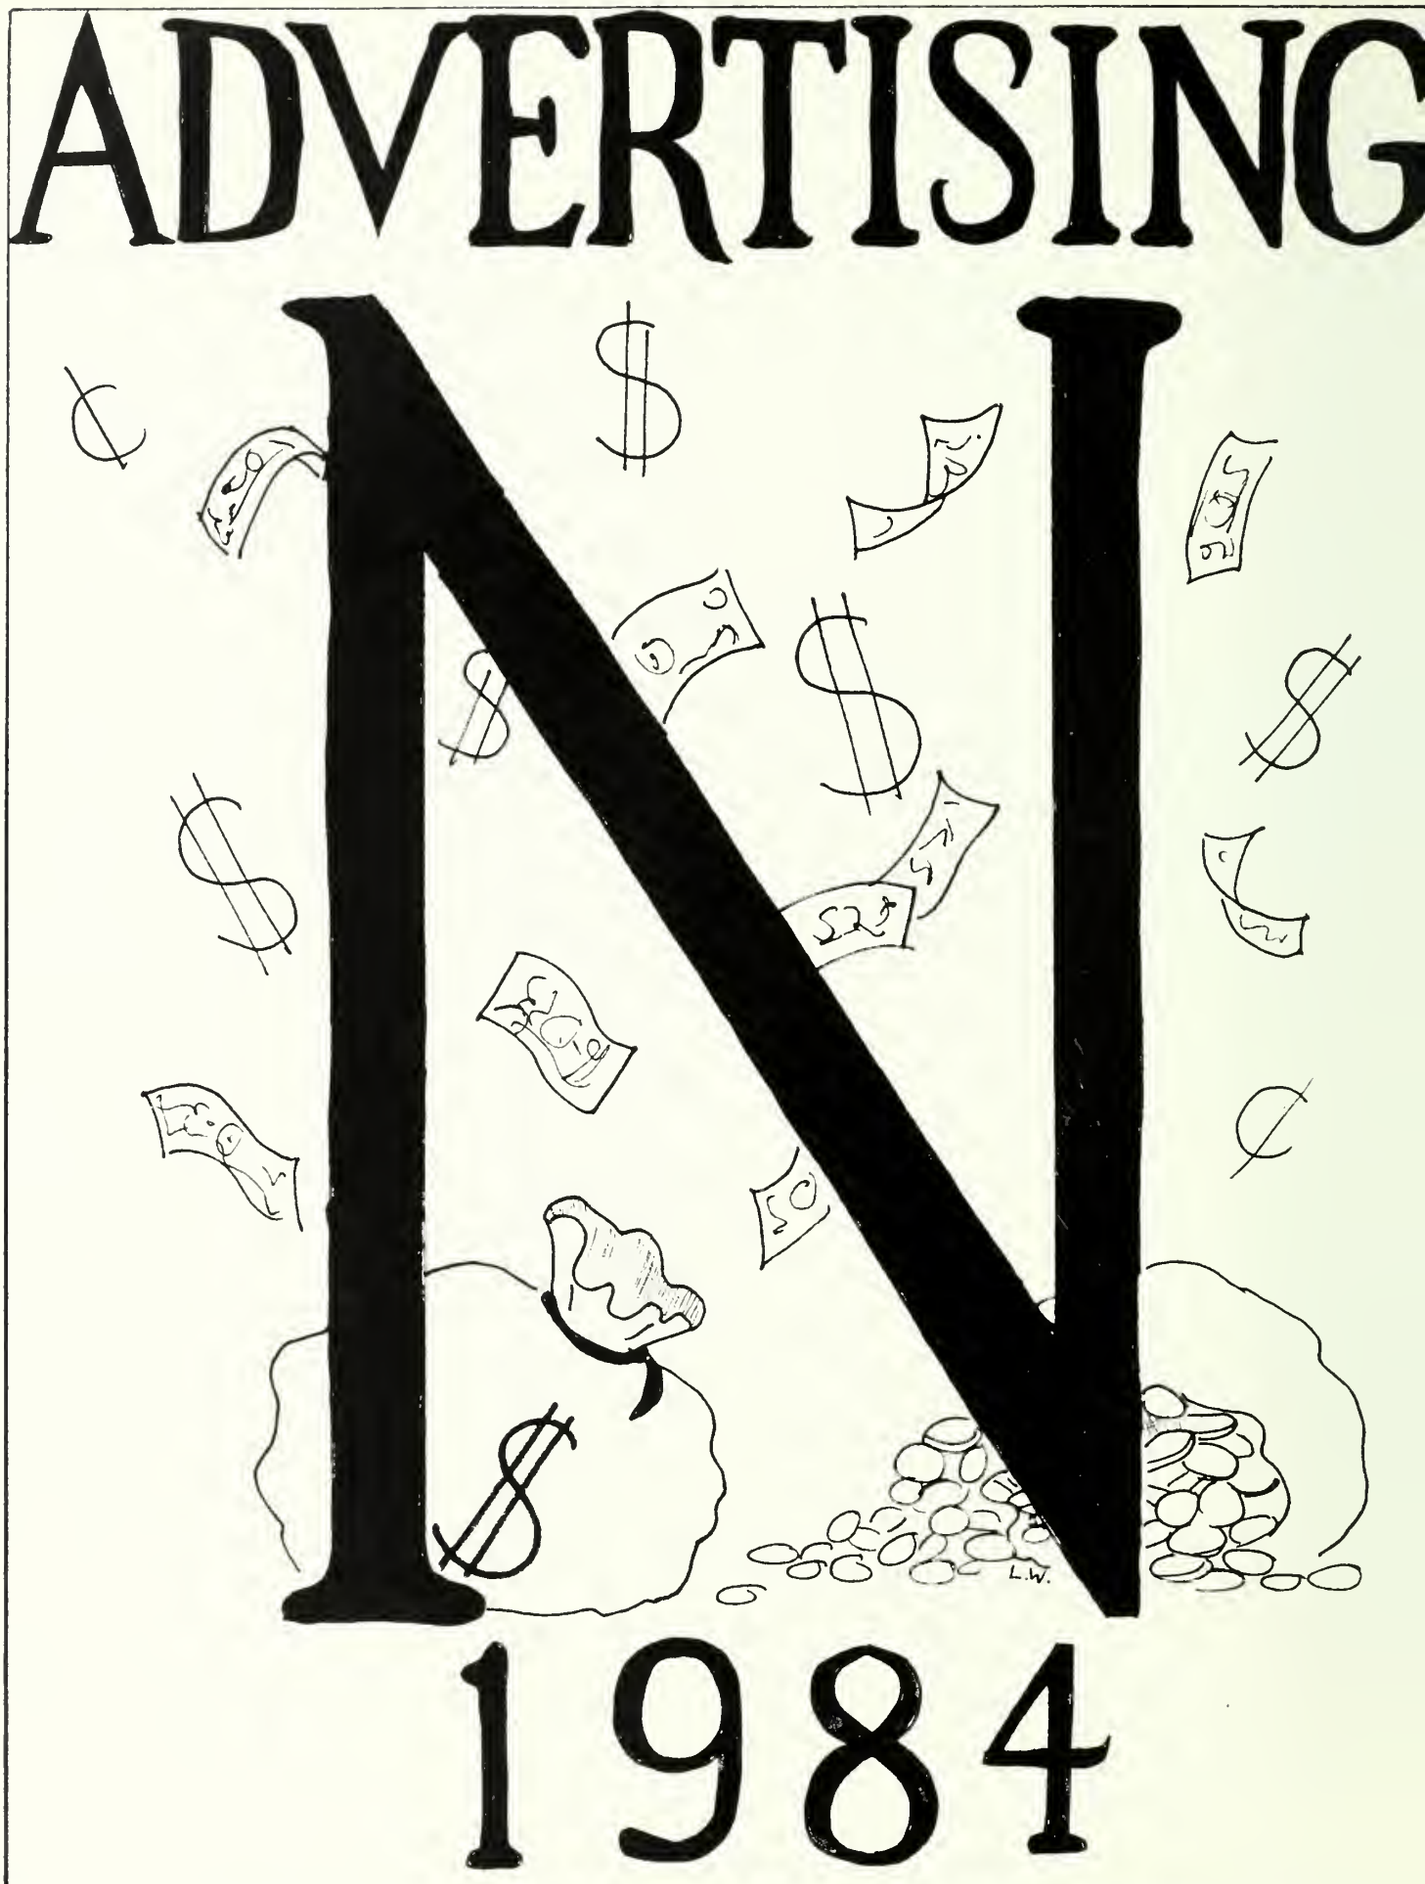

We, the Class of 1984, have finally come to the end of our four years at Arlington High School and they have been years of change and growing up for all of us. Yearbook has especially influenced me. It truly has, despite what I thought, been a great learning experience. Yearbook with all its meetings has, for me, strengthened old friendships and created new ones. I have learned much about myself and others.

To my staff, I offer a heartfelt thanks for all the long hours of work and constant support they have given me this year. Without all their effort, the yearbook could never have been what it is, a reflection of our class and its four years. I would especially like to thank Rob Davison, my assistant editor. I could always depend on you, Rob, for help in making decisions and support. Those long yearbook meetings were always made more enjoyable with your laughter and spirit. I would also like to thank Miss Finberg. Fin, you were always there to listen to my problems and be my friend. Finally, I would like to thank Mr. Reis, our advisor. I could always count on your guidance and support throughout this year.

To the Class of 1984, I offer my congratulations and best wishes for success. I hope that your years as mine, have prepared you for the future. I know that these past four years have been special to us all and we will always look back fondly. I hope this yearbook will reflect some of those memories. I realize we cannot please everyone, but we did our best to make this yearbook something special. As you look ahead remember that after graduation we will be truly entering adulthood. May we all do our very best to make our dreams come true. Good Luck Class of 1984.
